4. CONFLICT OF INTEREST

Objective:

To define conflict of interest and to provide guidelines which will prevent any perceived or real conflict of interest and ensure that West Moberly First Nations (WMFN) operates with integrity.

Application and Scope:

West Moberly First Nations regular and casual employees, Chief & Council, members of the Elders' Council and contractors.

Policy:

Association with WMFN carries with it a responsibility for ethical conduct in all employment relationships and activities. Those covered by this policy must refrain from taking part, or exerting influence, in any transaction in which their own interests, including direct or indirect interests resulting from their immediate family or business relationships; that may conflict with the interests of WMFN.

For the purpose of applying this policy, the term "immediate family" is limited to the employees' spouse (including common-law and same sex spouse), parents, children, siblings, grandparents and includes in-law and step relationships, and any relative permanently residing in the employee's household or with whom the employee resides.

Employees shall not hold outside office or employment that could place demands on them inconsistent with their official duties at WMFN or call into question their capacity to perform their duties in an objective manner.

Definitions and Conditions:

A conflict of interest occurs when an employee's private affairs or financial interests are in conflict, or could result in a perception of conflict, with the employee's duties or responsibilities in such a way that the employee's ability to act in the interest of WMFN could be impaired; or that the employee's actions or conduct could undermine or compromise confidence in the employee's ability to fulfill work responsibilities with integrity.

Conflict of interest includes, but is not limited to, the following examples:

- An employee is in a situation where the employee is under obligation to a person who might benefit from or seek to gain special consideration or favour;
- An employee, in the performance of his/her duties, gives preferential treatment to an individual, or business, in which the employee, or a relative or friend of the employee, has an interest, financial or otherwise; or
- An employee benefits from, or is reasonably perceived to have benefited from, the use of information acquired solely by reason of the employee's employment with WMFN.

WMFN recognizes and respects the individual employee's right to engage in activities outside of his or his/her employment relationship or in activities that are private in nature and do not conflict with or reflect poorly on the integrity of WMFN.

However, the Chief and Council reserves the right to determine when an employee's activities represent a real or perceived conflict with WMFN interests, and to take whatever action is necessary to resolve the situation including terminating or suspending the employee until the conflict no longer exists.

Procedure:

It is the obligation of the individual covered by this policy, if he/she believes he/she may have a conflict of interest with respect to an activity, potential contract award, or employment opportunity, to declare the potential conflict of interest to his/her immediate Supervisor as soon as he/she becomes aware of the situation. If the supervisor deems that the affected employee is indeed in a conflict situation the employee will be excused from the process.

It is the responsibility of the Supervisor to inform the Director of Operations of the employee's potential situation and if appropriate provide other information that may assist the decision-maker in reaching a decision.

It is the duty of the employee to refrain from taking part in the activity or related discussions pending a decision from the Director of Operations and, or Chief and Council on whether a real or perceived conflict exists. If the potential issue involves the Director of Operations it must be addressed with the Chief and Council.

Employees who fail to disclose this information may be subject to disciplinary action up to and including dismissal.

If an employee of WMFN believes another employee has a conflict of interest with an activity, potential contract award or employment opportunity, that employee must report his/her concern to the immediate Supervisor of the employee whose actions are being called into question. It is the responsibility of the Supervisor of the affected employee to inform the Director of Operations of the situation and if appropriate provide other information that may assist the decision-maker in reaching a decision.

The employee whose activity is called into question will be requested by the Supervisor to cease that activity until a decision is made by the Director of Operations and/or Chief and Council on whether a real or perceived conflict exists.

If an employee refuses to cease the activity in question, the Director of Operations may take disciplinary action up to and including dismissal.

Vindictive or frivolous accusations of conflict will not be tolerated and can lead to discipline up to and including dismissal.

Employees who negotiate contracts or are responsible for selecting of suppliers and contractors are prohibited from accepting gifts from potential suppliers. If a gift is received the employee must turn it over to the Director of Operations who will, in consultation the Chief and Council, decide what to do with the gift. Any employee who is being entertained by suppliers or contractors must seek the prior approval of the Director of Operations. The Director of Operations must seek prior approval from the Chief and Council.

Upon receipt of a gift in excess of $100, employees must submit the gift to the Director of Operations. The Director of Operations will present it to Council who will:

- Have the gift raffled and allocate the proceeds to a community based program (such as the Elder's or Youth Programs) which the employee may participate in selecting.
- Such other programs as the Chief and Council may decide.

It is the responsibility of the Supervisor, Director of Operations and Chief and Council to maintain accurate records of each conflict of interest matter and those records are stored in a way that does not breach required confidentiality.

5. DECISION NOTE

Objective:

To keep Chief and Council informed and provide a formal record of decisions on issues.

Application and Scope:

West Moberly First Nations regular and casual employees.

Policy:

All employees are to use a Decision Note, as set out in the Appendices, to obtain a decision or direction from Chief and Council.

Procedure:

Wherever possible a Decision Note should be kept brief.

To be effective, a Decision Note must be easy to read, well organized, clear and concise. Consistent use of a standard format allows Decision Note readers to locate important information quickly. The following sections outline the required format:

Subject

A brief statement of the Decision Note's specific topic. If updating, provide a copy of original Decision Note.

Background

Provide information that is critical to understand the issue or situation. Include an attachment if there is additional detail (which is helpful, but not essential, to the reader), for example a chronology of events.

Discussion

List all the pertinent facts logically.

Options

List the options – discuss the advantages (pros) and disadvantages (cons) of each option. Structure this section with each option identified in separate paragraphs, for example, Option 1, Option 2, etc.

Recommendation

State only the Option number that you are recommending.

Chief and Council have the authority to choose any option or provide a decision which is not listed in the options provided by the staff member.

Chief and Council may also provide limitations on recommended options.

Distribution

Once a decision is made, a copy of the signed Decision Note will be given back to the staff member. The original will be given to Finance (if of a financial matter) or the Director of Operations (if of non-financial matter).

Exceptions will be in the case of legal documentation required for contract purposes, i.e. INAC funding, in which case the original will go in the contract file and a copy to the Director of Operations.

6. EMPLOYEE DISCIPLINE

Objective:

To maintain an effective and motivated workforce through fair and consistent treatment of all employees.

Application and Scope:

West Moberly First Nations regular and casual employees.

Policy:

WMFN will deal with disciplinary situations according to the issue as appropriate. While a progressive discipline process will be utilized in some situations WMFN may, in appropriate circumstances, discipline and/or terminate employees without progressive discipline.

Discipline Problems:

Discipline problems fall into three basic categories (see Standards of Conduct Policy):

Attendance problems including:

- unexcused absenteeism
- excessive excused absenteeism
- tardiness

Failure to meet acceptable standards of performance (i.e. neglect) including:

- excessive errors in work
- poor quality of work

Misconduct problems including:

- failure to abide by the employer's rules and policies
- failure to comply with a reasonable directive
- unacceptable attire
- unprofessional conduct
- abusive language
- loafing
- theft
- others

Definition of Progressive Discipline:

Progressive discipline is the application of a series of steps taken by WMFN to deter an employee from demonstrating and continuing to demonstrate unacceptable conduct or work ethics and to cause corrective action from the employee.

The primary objective of progressive discipline is to correct the problem rather than punish the offender.

Progressive discipline has a secondary purpose which is to show that the employer has given fair warning to the employee and has made a reasonable effort to alter the employee's unacceptable conduct or work ethics. This record provides the employer with sufficient supporting documentation for a termination for "just cause".

Typical Steps of Progressive Discipline:

1. Verbal Warning
2. Written Warning
3. Suspension
4. Termination

1. Verbal Warning

A verbal warning is a conversation between the Director of Operations or supervisor and an employee about a discipline problem.

A verbal warning should clearly specify the following points:

- the nature of the offense
- that the offense will not be condoned
- the consequence of further offenses

- the changes required

The Director of Operations or an immediate supervisor will place a written record of a verbal warning in the employee's personnel file for a period of one year. The record shall include the date and the details of the verbal warning including the response of the employee.

2. Written Warnings

A written warning summarizes a formal conversation between the Director of Operations or Supervisor and an employee regarding misconduct. The written reprimand must contain:

- the date of the conversation
- details about the specific violation or performance problem
- a reference to any previous conversations relating to the same problem
- a statement of specific change(s) the employee is expected to make
- a time limit for changes; and
- a statement that the written warning constitutes a disciplinary action and that a further incident will lead to more serious disciplinary measures up to and including termination

The Director of Operations or Supervisor must sign the written warning. The employee must sign the written warning acknowledging its receipt. The Director of Operations or Supervisor must ensure that a copy of the warning along with any agreement made by the employee is given to the employee within 48 hours, and that a copy of the warning and agreement is placed in the employee's personnel file for a period of two years. A record of any appeal (as set out in the Appeal Policy), including the result, must be attached to the record of disciplinary action.

3. Suspension

All suspensions must be followed up with a written memo, containing the same of information listed for written warnings.

A suspension memo must include a statement that the employee is suspended from work, without pay, for a specific period of time. The period of time will be up to the Director of Operations and will be dependent on the severity of the discipline problem. The details of the suspension will be kept on record in the employee's file for a period of 2 years.

4. Termination

Termination is the final step in progressive discipline and normally occurs only after all the previous steps have been taken and the employee's conduct or work ethics are still unacceptable.

Two circumstances under which termination occurs are:

- Planned Termination – all progressive discipline steps have been followed
- Crisis Termination – offence committed is so serious that termination is appropriate even if no steps have been taken previously.

A termination letter and details of the termination will be kept in the employee's file for a period of 7 years.

Steps for Crisis Termination:

1. In appropriate circumstances, pending the investigation of the incident and good faith effort to inform Chief and or Council, the Director of Operations will:
 - a. ask the alleged offender to turn over his/her keys and escort him/her from the premises; and
 - b. investigate the incident and prepare a report that includes:
 - i.) interview of witnesses
 - ii.) interview of alleged offender
 - iii.) other appropriate measures

2. If it is deemed that termination is appropriate, prepare a letter of termination detailing the incident(s) that led to the termination and advising the employee of their right to appeal the decision.
3. Chief and or quorum of Council must be informed as soon as possible of the employee's termination.

Appropriate Disciplinary Action:

Once the employer has determined that disciplinary action is warranted, then the appropriate type and severity of discipline must be determined.

The criteria for determining proper disciplinary action will be based on the following:

- the degree of severity of the offence
- the length of service with the employer
- the employee's work record and if there was previous disciplinary action;
- provocation, if any, that may have led to the misconduct
- whether the offence was premeditated or committed as a momentary departure from normal conduct or work ethics
- evidence that the adopted employee policies have not been uniformly enforced, thus constituting a form of discrimination
- whether the penalty would create an undue economic hardship or restrict the employee's rights under policy or applicable law
- employee's failure to provide a reasonable explanation of the employee's actions when confronted; and
- employee's failure to recognize the misconduct (apology or remorse)

Severity of the Offence:

Some discipline problems are more serious than others. Discipline problems are usually separated into three categories depending on how serious they are. The three categories are:

- Minor violations
- Serious violations
- Major violations

Minor Violations

Minor violations are those which include but are not limited to:

- excessive tardiness
- poor housekeeping
- overstaying breaks or lunch periods; or
- minor inefficiencies

The first time a minor violation occurs, the supervisor should bring it to the employee's attention in an informal or casual conversation. If the problem continues, a Verbal Warning would be appropriate.

Serious Violations

Serious violations are those which include but are not limited to:

- questions of honesty
- constitute a threat to the operation of WMFN; or
- pose a threat to the safety and wellbeing of other employees, WMFN members, clients, customers or the employer

The first time a serious violation is committed, the Supervisor should conduct a Written Warning (Step 2) or a Suspension. The following factors should be taken into consideration in determining whether the Written Warning or Suspension is appropriate:

- the severity of the offence
- the employee's previous work record
- previous actions for similar offences; and
- the Director of Operation's judgment about which step would be more effective in bringing about a change in the employee's conduct

Major Violations

Major violations are acts which seriously threaten the operation of WMFN or the safety and wellbeing of WMFN members, clients, customers and co-workers. They represent actions which cannot be tolerated in any organization and include, but are not limited to, events of harassment.

Termination is considered the appropriate penalty for a major violation regardless of whether any previous disciplinary offences have occurred. Commission of a major violation usually indicates that the employee involved lacks the respect and self-discipline to remain a member of the organization.

Major Violations also include breaching the Standards of Conduct Policy

Termination with Cause:

WMFN reserves the right to terminate any probationary, regular or casual employee for cause without notice and without severance pay.

Termination without Cause:

Subsequent to completion of the probationary term of employment referred to above, WMFN may terminate your employment at any time:

- a. for cause (including the failure to successfully complete a performance improvement plan) in which case you are not entitled to any advance notice of termination or compensation in lieu of notice. Cause includes, but is not limited to, a Major Violation or actions that have progressed through the disciplinary procedures set out herein, or
- b. without cause, in which case we will provide you with:
 - i.) two weeks' advance written notice during your first year of employment;
 - ii.) one additional week per completed year of employment thereafter, to a maximum of eight weeks; and
 - iii.) after eight years of service, two additional days' pay per completed year of employment thereafter.
 - iv.) if the Canada Labour Code is amended to increase the amount of notice that is required, you will receive that increased amount.

You may terminate your employment at any time by providing us with at least two weeks advance notice of your intention to resign.

The notice can be actual notice, or base pay in lieu thereof, or any combination of the two and it is agreed that this will be the only payment required for the termination of employment.

You hereby acknowledge and agree that the notice and pay in lieu of notice provisions are fair and reasonable and that upon termination of this Agreement you will have no action, cause of action, claim or demand against the Company or any person as a consequence of any such termination or for any further payments.

Employee Rights:

It is a basic management right for Chief and Council to implement policies.

However, these policies must conform to the following criteria:

- they cannot conflict with legislative requirements
- they cannot adversely affect an employee's rights under labour legislation (BC Labour Relations Act; BC Employment Standards Act; Human Rights Act, Canada Labour Code)
- they must be reasonable and administered consistently and fairly
- they must have been communicated clearly to the employee; and
- they cannot infringe upon the personal liberty of the employee, unless such rules are essential to meet conditions of the job or workplace.

7. BULLYING AND HARASSMENT

Objective:

To ensure that West Moberly First Nations (WMFN) provides a work environment free from bullying, harassment, and discrimination as required by current laws.

Application and Scope:

West Moberly First Nations regular and casual employees, contractors, Chief and Council. Also applies to interpersonal and electronic communications such as email and social media.

Policy:

Because bullying and harassment violate the fundamental rights, dignity, and integrity of the individual, WMFN does not tolerate bullying, harassment, or discrimination and promotes a work environment where all persons are treated with respect and dignity.

WMFN has a legal obligation to provide a safe workplace.

A copy of this policy will be posted in all WMFN offices.

Definitions:

Bullying and Harassment:

- a. includes any inappropriate conduct or comment by a person towards a worker that the person knew or reasonably ought to have known would cause that worker to be humiliated or intimidated, but
- b. excludes any reasonable action taken by an employer or supervisor relating to the management and direction of workers or the place of employment.

Harassment: consists of one or more incidents involving comments, advances, or actions concerning the person's race, colour, ancestry, place of origin, political beliefs, religion, marital status, appearance, physical or mental disability, age, sex, or sexual orientation when:

- such conduct reasonably might be expected to cause embarrassment, insecurity, discomfort, offence, or humiliation to another person or group;
- submission to such conduct is made either implicitly or explicitly a condition of employment;
- submission to or rejection of such conduct is used as basis for any employment decision including, but not limited to, matters of promotion, raises in salary, job security or benefits affecting the employee; or
- such conduct has the purpose or the effect of interfering with the person's work performance or creating an intimidating, hostile or offensive work environment.

Bullying: consists of repeated, persistent, and aggressive behaviour intended to cause fear, distress, or harm to another person's body, emotions, self-esteem, or reputation.

Sexual Harassment: is any unwelcome comment or conduct of a sexual nature that may negatively impact the work environment or lead to adverse job-related consequences for the victim of the harassment. Sexual harassment may be overt or subtle. It refers to behaviour that is personally offensive.

Sexual harassment includes, but is not limited to:

- a person in authority asking an employee for sexual favours in return for being hired or receiving promotions or other employment benefits;
- sexual advances with actual or implied work-related consequences;
- sexual innuendo or sexually suggestive comments including but not limited to sexually oriented kidding, teasing, or practical jokes, and jokes about gender specific traits;
- verbal abuse, intimidation, or threats of a sexual nature;
- leering, staring, or making sexual gestures;

- offensive pictures, graffiti, cartoons, or sayings;
- unwanted physical contact such as touching, patting, pinching, hugging, brushing up against another body;
- physical assault of a sexual nature; or
- graphic verbal comments about an individual's body or appearance.

Procedures:

All those involved in the handling of a complaint under these procedures shall, subject to any applicable law, hold in the strictest confidence all pertinent information of which they become aware. It must be anticipated that the individual accused of wrongdoing will be told of the details of the allegations.

However, the Chief and Council shall be made aware of all or part of the proceedings on a need-to-know basis. As the individual who holds primary responsibility for all personnel matters, the Director of Operations or Chief as appropriate, must be kept apprised of all matters related to a harassment complaint.

Reporting

If an employee observes bullying or harassment, has been or is being bullied or harassed, the employee shall take the following steps:

- tell the individual his/her behaviour is unwelcome and ask him/her to stop. If the individual is not comfortable telling the harasser, then they should advise their supervisor of the situation
- if the complaint is against their supervisor, the individual should report to the next level of authority
- keep a record of incidents (times, dates, locations, possible witnesses, what happened, your response). The employee does not have to have a record of events in order to file a complaint, but a record can strengthen the employee's case and help the employee remember details over time.

The employee may formally raise incidents of bullying/harassment with the Director of Operations, Supervisor or Chief and Council. It is the responsibility of those who have been informed to make the Director of Operations, Chief and Program Supervisor aware of the situation.

The employee wishing to formally address a bullying/harassment issue shall file a formal written complaint with the Supervisor, Director of Operations or his/her Family Councillor.

The complainant, the alleged harasser and any individuals who may be able to provide relevant information shall be interviewed separately.

If the investigation reveals evidence to support the allegation of workplace harassment, the harasser will be disciplined according to the Employee Discipline Policy and the incident will be documented and filed.

Informal Resolution:

Employees who believe that they have a complaint of discrimination or harassment may approach the Director of Operations, Supervisor or Family Councillor to request assistance in resolving the matter. If the matter is dealt with to the complainant's satisfaction, it is deemed to be resolved.

It is the responsibility of the Director of Operations to ensure a thorough, discreet and fair investigation of the reported incident within a reasonable time frame. The method of investigation is at the sole discretion of the Director of Operations in consultation with appropriate individuals which may include the complainant, complainant's Supervisor, family councillor, Council and, or legal counsel.

The Director of Operations, Supervisor or Family Councillor shall investigate and take steps to resolve the complaint within 5 days of its being raised by the employee. The Director of Operations, Supervisor or Family Councillor shall discuss the proposed resolution with the complainant and the respondent. The complainant and the respondent may have another representative present during discussions.

Formal Resolution:

If an employee wishes to file a formal written complaint of harassment, the complaint must contain:

- the name of the alleged offender(s);
- description of the action(s), conduct, events, or circumstances involved in the complaint, including dates, times, places, names of individuals involved or witnessing the incident(s), and any other relevant information;
- the specific remedy sought to satisfy the complaint; and
- prior attempts to resolve (if any).

The Director of Operations shall conduct an investigation or hire an outside investigator and all necessary steps shall be taken to resolve the problem.

It is the responsibility of the Director of Operations to ensure a thorough, discreet and fair investigation of the reported incident occurs within a reasonable time frame. The method of investigation is at the sole discretion of the Director of Operations in consultation with appropriate individuals which may include the complainant, complainant's Supervisor, family councillor, Council and/or legal counsel.

Once a formal complaint is received, to the extent available at law, and required for a proper investigation, it shall be kept confidential. The alleged harasser(s), the Director of Operations, and WMFN Council, shall be provided with copies of the complaint, as will any outside investigator.

The Director of Operations, Supervisor or Family Councillor shall investigate and take steps to resolve the complaint within 5 days of its being raised by the employee. The Director of Operations, Supervisor or Family Councillor shall discuss the proposed resolution with the complainant and the respondent. A complete confidential file shall be kept on the matter.

The complainant and the respondent may have another representative present during discussions.

Caveat:

An employee who files a written complaint that would be seen by a reasonable person to be frivolous, vindictive or vexatious shall be subject to disciplinary action that may include termination.

Allegation of Harassment by an outside party:

Employees who believe that they have a complaint of discrimination or harassment relating to the conduct of someone who is not employed by WMFN but who attends at the employee's place of work, may approach the Director of Operations, Supervisor or Family Councillor to request assistance in resolving the matter.

The investigation principles set out herein shall apply.

WMFN shall, if the matter cannot be resolved, require that the individual accused of wrongdoing not attend at the work premise of the complainant.

Employee Rights:

This policy does not preclude an employee from filing a complaint under any applicable Human Rights legislation.

8. HIRING PRACTICES

Objective:

Employment equity through fair and transparent hiring policies and procedures.

Application and Scope:

All vacant positions within West Moberly First Nations (WMFN) except for casual hire and contract positions.

Policy:

WMFN encourages applications from all qualified persons.

Posting the Vacancy:

All position vacancies will be posted on the bulletin board in the WMFN offices for a minimum of 10 working days as well as being sent in regular community mailings and posted in outside sources as deemed necessary by the Director of Operations and/or Chief and Council.

The Director of Operations or Human Resource Department will provide Councillors with job postings and descriptions prior to posting vacancies in the WMFN offices.

The postings will describe the key responsibilities of the vacant position and the minimum requirements (qualifications, education and experience) for the position.

The posting will also state the deadline for receipt of applications.

Application Procedure:

Applicants must submit an application for employment and resume to the West Moberly First Nations Director of Operations as outlined in the advertisement.

When applying for more than one position, a separate application must be submitted for each position.

Processing Applications:

Applications received past the deadline date and time will not be accepted.

Applications that meet the minimum requirements will be placed in a temporary file for the duration of the hiring process including, formal review, short-listing and personal interviews. Councillors will be provided with a written list of the applicants and their addresses for their review and comments on possible issues with the applicants within three days of receipt.

All applications for the position will be reviewed following the closing date noted on the job posting. A short-list of applicants who may be granted an interview will be prepared from the candidates who meet the minimum qualifications noted on the job posting and are best suited to the position requirements. This task will be conducted by applying a consistent evaluation process. Applications that do not clearly indicate how the applicant meets the job requirements will not be considered further.

The position will be reposted following the review process in the event that no qualified applications are received.

Interview:

Interviews will be conducted using a panel format. The interview panel may consist of two representatives of Chief and Council, the Director of Operations and the supervisor of the position. The WMFN Chief and Council may authorize an interview with less than three panel members if operational requirements make it difficult for a full panel of interviewers. Interview panel may consult with and/or include additional subject matter experts as required.

Any applicant invited for an interview who fails to attend the interview at their assigned time without good cause and advance notice will not be considered further for the specific position.

Interview questions will be prepared, distributed and agreed to by the interview panel members prior to the interviews. The interview questions will include a question to clarify conviction of criminal offences as well as a written component when appropriate.

All competitions will include an interview and reference checks for short-listed applicants.

Selection:

The interview panel will rank the applicants as to the order of job offer immediately following the interview process. The interview panel will also provide direction regarding the acceptable start date and starting wage or salary as appropriate. The WMFN Pay Grid will be referenced in considering the starting wage or salary.

The Director of Operations will offer the position to the candidates by way of written employment Contract in the order authorized by the Interview panel.

After the panel has selected the successful candidate, all candidates interviewed will be notified by the Director of Operations regarding the outcome of the competition. Applicants may contact the Director of Operations with questions about the interview.

The position will be reposted following the interview process in the event that no qualified applicants are identified by the interview panel. In the event that only 1 candidate applies for the position the interview panel will interview that candidate providing the applicant meets the minimum criteria. Thereafter the interview panel reserves the right to either offer employment or re-post for the position.

Conditions of Employment:

At the end of the period during which the plan is in effect, the Director of Operations or Supervisor and the employee review the standards established during the planning meetings and seek consensus on the results achieved. A performance summary will be completed.

The frequency of evaluations may vary from no less than once per year to no later than the anniversary date of hire, to several times a year as the Director of Operations or Supervisor may deem necessary to achieve the goals of the Nation and/or to:

- the performance results achieved
- the employee's strengths as well as skills or knowledge requiring development; and
